Our life is like some vast lake that is slowly filling with the stream of our years. As the waters creep surely upward the landmarks of the past are one by one submerged. But there shall always be memory to lift its head above the tide until the lake is overflowing.

Images of time past, from the day we first came to the spring that was the beginning of our years in the small world. Having traveled from that place, down the river, we stand on the shore where the waters meet the sea. Before us lies the ocean, the sun sparkling on its surface—bright with promise.

Now this is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning.

-W. Churchill

FACULTY— ADMINISTRATION

As some vast river of unfailing source, rapid, exhaustless, deep, their numbers flowed, and opened new fountains in the human heart.

These men and women were the source of our College—the original spring from which the waters flowed toward the sea, carrying with them the uninitiate to be taught and to be guided. From them we gained breadth of mind, help, inspiration—deep, wide, steadily, the river runs into the future.

What wisdom can you find that is greater than kindness.

CLASSES

For all the school's a stage, and all the women merely players; they have their exits and their entrances. And one woman, here, plays many parts, her acts being four stages. First, the freshman, with shining morning face discovering the city and the school; next the sophomore, sighing like furnace, with woeful ballad to college life. Then the junior, full of strange oaths and the wisdom of the sage. Last scene of all, that ends this strange eventful history, is senior year, great knowledge, and departure from the stage.

Freshman Reps—Margaret Powell; Barbara Hatfield; Gretchen Laun; Carolyn Clark; Janet Whitney; Priscilla Haines; center, Sandra Mac-Lean.

The Class of '60 came in like a whirlwind during Orientation Week. Acquaintance dances were their debut in Boston and the Class got to know itself at the Freshman banquet for commuters and dorm students. The most important activity was organizationclass officers, a faculty adviser, and a blue and silver raccoon to lead the way. Quickly they developed class spirit and became a part of Simmons. The Bib Party with the Juniors started facultystudent relations off with many laughs, and by the time blazers were ordered in the spring, the Class of 1960 was an old-timer.

Taking part in Leaders' Workshop started the year for the Class of 1959. Soon one of their representatives took over the planning of one of the earliest and most popular all-college events—Christmas Cotillion. There were many other things to be done throughout the year: the organization of the Valentine Party for the freshmen, the prom, Sophomore Luncheon, Soph Auction, and May Breakfast.

Finding skunks hard to come by, the class mascot was changed—rings and keys were ordered—hour changes were debated—in short, a busy, productive year.

CLASS OF 1958

"Here we come a wassailing . . ."

From a man's point of view.

The Class of 1958 started its year by welcoming its sister class, making them feel at home. Later the Junior and Freshman Classes were united through a candlelight ceremony.

After school got underway, the Juniors took over Leaders' Workshop and managed skit night. At Olde English Dinner, Juniors served as carolers and provided some of the entertainment for the Seniors and the faculty. With the coming of spring came worries about Junior Prom and Spring Spree. Finally, at the last Step Sing, they captured the steps and, in June, formed the traditional Daisy Chain.

Heinz led the Class of 1957 in the first Step Sing of the year and found it a change to be looking down from the steps. The political campaign, with a new significance since many of us could vote, swept us along until the dragon appeared to entertain rapt audiences at Olde English Dinner.

Senior-Faculty Dinner, Senior Luncheon with the presentation of roses, May Day Breakfast—Heinz ate and talked and, in the Placement Office, looked toward a job. Graduation was the climax of the year, of four years, and everyone celebrated during the festivities of Senior Week.

Dear Folks,

Tonight was our first Freshman activity . . .

ORGANIZATIONS

Time is a sort of river of passing events, and strong is its current; no sooner is a thing brought to sight than it is swept by and another takes its place, and this too will be swept away.

---Marcus Aurelius

Yet it formed a pattern—the clubs, committees—constantly growing and changing. There was a place for each of the diverse interests and talents . . . and we worked and played and directed our energies into multiple currents. Thus was the running of our small society learned —to be used ultimately in a larger world.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Acting as a connecting link between faculty, administration, and students, the aim of Student Government is to advance the educational and intellectual growth of the college community. It represents the largest possible number of the student body and is designed to further the interests of the entire College. The major effort this year was the improvement, through simplification, of the all-college election system.

HONOR BOARD

Working unobtrusively for the most part, Honor Board is intrinsic to the spirit of the College. A student-elected body, it has the responsibility of enforcing the principles of the Honor System, educating the students to the System, and publicizing and adapting the System to meet changing needs. Honor Board facilitates living at Simmons, and exemplifies it.

SENATE

To investigate and recommend in any matter concerning the student body—this is the function of the new Senate. Wide representation gives it the force of opinion throughout the school. Still under evaluation, Senate deals with such varied problems as the overcrowding of the lunchroom and possible installation of a room inspection system on campus.

Honor Board—Harriet Farrell; Roberta Brown; Barbara Buckley; Helen Lunger; Janet Phillips, Chairman; Joan Buckley; Sylvia Coutts; Constance Gray, Jesselyn Carvalho.

Senate—Standing: Nancy Glynn; Nancy Dexter; Lorraine Kechejian; Helen Klein; Marilyn Mason; Valerie Wilcox; Arden Hertzog; Celeste Limoges; Seated: Robin Cram; Patricia French; Carole Jaques. Moderator; Jane Opdycke; Joan Winter; Barbara Buchwald.

NSA—Front: Ellen Jarvis; Carol Peacock; June Gonzalez, Chairman; Naomi Greenfield; Back: Gretchen Kimball; Amy Gordon; Marilyn Brynes; Lynette Chandler; Frances Lalli.

NSA

Every student at Simmons is a member of NSA, the National Student Organization of college governments that works toward the progress and improvement of student life throughout the world. Representatives from Simmons attend local, regional, and national conferences to exchange ideas with students from other colleges. This year, a regional conference was held at Simmons. NSA is becoming more important as the years pass and students become more aware of the need for better communication with all students on a national and international level.

Leaders' Workshop—Seated: Ellen Jarvis; Carol Peacock; Frances Lalli; Standing: Helen Klein; Gretchen Hanlon.

LEADERS'' WORKSHOP

Leaders' Workshop is a Sophomore project sponsored by NSA. Any member of the Class may participate in the meetings and projects which go on throughout the year. It aims to acquaint the student with the problems of leadership and to keep student organization a growing movement. This year's commissions investigated College etiquette, social activities, and existing traditions as a part of their project and for the use of the new College Handbook.

House Presidents' Council is the campus branch of Student Government Council and is responsible for the coordination of social activities, house councils and other campus organizations. It also acts to maintain the rules covering dormitory students and serves as a final board of appeals. Working closely with the Director of Students and the Manager of Residence, House Presidents' Council is also in charge of planning many of the campus traditions.

Responsible for all campus recreation, Social Activities plans and directs dances, parties, and door decoration, skit nights, teas, demi-tasses, and sit-down dinners. Its individual representatives work with their own dorms on brunches and other recreation. A representative on Dorm Council helps to keep it in coordination with the other committees on campus.

Forum—Front: Dawn Anderson, President; Heather Nason; Back: Bailey Haines; Patricia Rhein.

FORUM

Forum is an all-college organization whose purpose is the integration and strengthening of the political, social, and cultural interests of the students. Panel discussions, debates, and informal discussions are held throughout the school year.

A A

Automatic membership in the Athletic Association opens a range of activities to the Simmons student—from tennis, swimming, and riding, to golf, archery, and badminton. High points of the year are the skiing trips, and the basketball and baseball competitions with the faculty.

NEWS requires no explanation, it is so intrinsic and important a part of Simmons. Every Thursday the circulation staff rushes copies to the crowds waiting in the front hall, the cafeteria, and in the dorms. A new six page format kept us posted on the Who? What? Where? When? Why? and How? of the College. All considered, NEWS has proved itself a newspaper of the students, by the students, and for the entire School.

MICROCOSM

For everything there is a season, but there were times when the editors of Microcosm would have been hard put to say even what day it was. There was a season for layouts, for photographing, for organizing, and for panicking. All received full measure before this Yearbook saw the light of day and peace returned once more to the Editors' office. The innovation for this year's staff was a Student Government allocation enabling them to begin without bills. Inspired and aided by cooperative faculty members and willing friends, the MIC staff toiled on and breathed a sigh as the last deadline was safely passed.

Academy is the academic honor society of Simmons College. The right to wear the blue and gold ribbon on the senior academic gown comes after a student has maintained a 3.2 average for 64 semester hours. Academy sponsors a tea in the fall to welcome new members and an annual banquet in the spring.

Ellen Richards—Seated: Patricia Gallant, President; Nellie Yee; Standing: Mary Henderson; Shirley Kimber; Electra Yankopoulos.

ELLEN RICHARDS

The Ellen Richards Club, for students in the School of Science, brings together the different branches of science. As members of the Inter-Collegiate Chemical Society, the Club meets with other science students and tours Boston's places of scientific interest.

Physical Therapy Club—Seated: Eleanor Olson; Audrey Haugaard, President; Mary Dreier; Standing: Sandra Holland; Renee Chasalow; Maureen Brodbine.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

The Physical Therapy Club includes undergraduates in physical therapy, and some fifth-year students. It serves two purposes: to acquaint each girl with an idea of what her profession entails; and to have all physical therapy students meet and share their common outlooks and interests.

ANNE STRONG

The Anne Strong Club for nursing students serves as the link between the undergraduates and the fifth-year nurses on affiliation. Speakers from local hospitals are included at the meetings, bringing members up-to-date on the latest medical techniques, and about the fields open to them.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club increases knowledge and interest in the various fields of home economics and develops professional attitudes among students. Members often meet jointly with other college Home Economic Clubs and with home economists in various areas as speakers. In December there is a Christmas party for the Nickerson Home for Children. Featured events of the year are the baking contest held with the faculty, and a May banquet.

PRINCE CLUB

The Prince Club offers Juniors, Seniors, and graduates of the School an opportunity to learn about their profession on an informal level. Although their activities are restricted by a lack of time, the club sponsors a fall Open-House at the Prince School — to which the College is welcomed. It serves also as a contact for all the students with the field of retailing and its newest developments.

POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION

PTA stands for Political Thought and Action, and the purpose of the club is not only to provoke thought, but active political participation on the student level. The Young Democrats and Young Republicans, under PTA, did volunteer work during this year's national election.

SOCIAL RELATIONS

Social Relations is one of Simmons' most active, important, and worthwhile organizations. Through Social Relations, students go into hospitals, schools, settlement houses, and institutions to do volunteer work. They not only perform a service for the community, but gain experience in teaching, social work, and community work.

Political Thought and Action Club— Ruth Angell, President.

Social Relations—Steffi Lewin; Carolyn Cohen; Constance Pennington, Chairman; Miriam Canner; Inez Kurn; Linda Abramson.

BLUETTES

The Bluettes are one of our more popular traditions. Expanded from an octet to a triple quartet, the Bluettes have sung at the University of New Hampshire, and most of our College functions. Ambassadors of good song, their singing is widely known and appreciated.

Bluettes—Bottom: Roberta Bamford; Anita Oppenheim; Sandra Bashore; Middle: Patricia Baker; Helen Lunger, Leader; Elizabeth Spencer; Top: Donna Howland; Joan Dexter; Susan Hausman.

GLEE CLUB

No college is complete without a Glee Club. The Christmas Concert, the assemblies, and Simmons Night at Pops add extra enjoyment to our davs here. This year, to clarify the position of the Club, it was placed directly under the sponsorship of the administration, along with all other music groups.

Glee Club—Patricia Baker; Evelyn Wolff; Nancy Garland, President; Susan Davis; Frances Hardy.

MODERN DANCE CLUB

Modern Dance Club-Meryl Gray; Leslie Markensohn, President; Hermine Levin; Eleanor Clarke.

The Modern Dance Club stimulates student interest in the various facets of the dance. Members gain technical skill through the creative activity of the Club's programs. Although Modern Dance requires a great deal of time and work, the finished product presented in the spring at their annual program is full reward. Self expression is the main factor and the program is choreographed entirely by the members. Excerpts from the production are part of the Spring Spree entertainment. The Club also works with other clubs and associations to provide entertainment for many social activities on campus.

SOCK AND BUSKIN

Blithely the spirit . . .

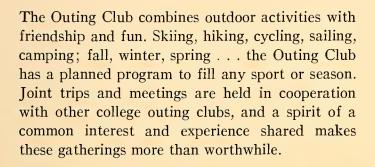

The name of Sock and Buskin, the Simmons dramatic society, is derived from the Elizabethan theater, and symbolizes comedy and tragedy. Anyone who is interested in any phase of the theater may belong. The Club works primarily with experimental theater —the plays of Saroyan, Goya, Shakespeare, and the Greeks. In addition to its own productions, it supervises class Compets, provides scenery and props, and acts in a general advisory capacity to each class participating. Members of the society paint their own sets, and provide their own lighting, props, and costumes. Visiting directors supplement and educate the members. Future goals include continued development of the experimental theater, possibly a short pre-Christmas production, and eventually a theater of its own.

Sock and Buskin—Nancy Kratzsch; Maybelle Hauser; Marilyn Miller, President; Linda Altman.

POSTER COMMITTEE

Since every organization may not have an artist, the Poster Committee is organized to publicize College events through a poster service available to any Simmons organization. The committee of ten to fifteen girls operates informally, on a slight-profit basis.

Poster Committee—Roberta Goldberg; Nancy Kratzsch, Chairman.

OUTING CLUB

Outing Club—Seated: Barbara Richmond; Patricia French; Barbara Goodell, President; Carol Steele; Standing: Gayle Saunders; Carol Curry; Faith Limric.

Newman Club—Father McKernan; Genevieve Guzik; Barbara Petroski; Joyce DeSilvia, President; Ann Schmidt.

Hillel Club—Bottom: Roslyn Mateles, President; Muriel Finkel; Top. Gail Kyett; Rose Levinson; Carol Korb.

NEWMAN CLUB

The goal of the Newman Club is to combine intellectual education with Catholic learning. As a member of the New England Province, Simmons Newman Club joins with Tech, Boston College, and Holy Cross in outings, dances, and religious programs. At the monthly meetings, members gain knowledge of the doctrines of the Church. Discussions of theology, philosophy, and the Catholic way of life are held.

EASTERN ORTHODOX CLUB

The Eastern Orthodox Club at Simmons was founded in 1947. Although its main emphasis is on religion, the Club participates actively as a social organization in cooperation with other Orthodox clubs of the Greater Boston area. An annual event is the Christmas party, held this year in conjunction with Harvard. The Orthodox Club is a member of the New England Federation of Orthodox Clubs, and participates annually in the Federation Conference.

HILLEL

B'nai B'rith Hillel functions to meet the cultural, religious, social and educational needs of the Jewish Simmons student, its purpose being to develop an interest in Jewish living and thinking. A faculty panel on the subject "Humanism in Religion" was featured this year, along with student panels, study groups, a speaker on the Near East, a music program, a picnic, and the annual Mother-Daughter Tea.

Orthodox Club — Venice Cahaty; Penelope Karageorge, President.

IVCF-Seated: Gail Falconer, President; Sandra Sutherland; Standing: Joan Egeris; Miriam Kent; Nora Aiken.

IVCF

An international organization, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is designed to bring Christian students into fellowship with other Christians through prayer meetings, Bible studies, and discussion groups. Conferences are sponsored by the New England Area IVCF, bringing many chapters together both intellectually and socially.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The Christian Science Organization was founded in 1912, and is one of the oldest organizations of its type at Simmons and in the country. The Club's main activity is religious; weekly meetings marked by readings and testimonials are participated in by all members. A speaker comes in the fall, and a reception is held in the spring in cooperation with the Mother Church.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The Christian Association is part of a national and international movement that strives to unite student Christian associations around the world. The Club's goal is "worship, study, and action." Service projects are sponsored throughout the year in nearby hospitals and settlement houses. The Club contributes to the relief of war-ravaged countries, and to international student relief.

Christian Science—Arden Hertzog; Mrs. Folk; Geraldine Hale, President.

Christian Association—Seated: Gretchen Kimball, President; Carolyn Butler; Standing: Dorothy Luke; Elaine Paulson.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Between the things that had to be done, and the things that should have been done, and the things that would have been done if there had been the time, we sandwiched the bright spots—those happenings that meant especially Simmons. The traditions, new and old, that were long anticipated; the special occasions that were over so quickly; and the time spent doing those important things: talking in the cafeteria, wandering the corridors keeping up on the news, and always, the rush to do the work that kept activities active. And these things were the spice of life.

TRADITIONAL EVENTS

Simmons is traditional, and some of our favorite memories stored up for the future are the "traditions." Soph Luncheon, May Day Breakfast, Olde English Dinner . . . just a few of the very memorable occasions that we shared in and that made us "belong." We got together with our classmates, formed committees, wrote skits, made sure there was enough punch and that our favorite faculty members were invited. We held our breath till everyone came, and then had a wonderful time. Simmons traditions fired us with Simmons spirit. We had a sense of continuity with all those shadowy people who had shared in them before us, with those classes who would come after us. Simmons is tradition, the tradition of people, of classmates.

Olde English . . . Ah! Ha! The dragon, he is dead.

May Day . . . great oaks from little acorns grow.

Spring Spree . . . scientific auctioneering.

SPRING SPREE— PARENTS WEEKEND TREASURE ISLAND

And they wrote the words themselves.

Spring Spree is one of the happiest Simmons traditions. When the snow has melted, and the back yard is finally green, the Simmons family breaks out in a carnival atmosphere and celebrates. There's a sunfilled weekend with something for everyone; Pops night at Simmons when the Glee Club serenades parents and students . . . Treasure Island Day—festive booths in the back yard, games for little sister, "Daddy, take a chance," the student-faculty softball game . . . Pirates' Paradise Dance . . . And Sunday is Mother's Day Dinner. Spring Spree is one wonderful occasion when the whole Simmons family: students, parents, faculty, administration, get together in a carefree atmosphere, have a gala time, and discover how nice it is to be a part of the Simmons community.

SCHOOLS

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But like the scafaring man on the desert of waters, you choose them as your guides, and following them you will reach your destiny.

—Schurz

Each of us made the choice, the start toward a profession which was our goal. More and more entirely we were absorbed by one of the schools. And it would come to make up not only our future, but our past—memories of rooms, equipment, labs, smells, sounds, familiar sights.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

The School of Business is the symbol of a modern Simmons, and the modern woman. Originally the school for girls with "flat heels and a purpose," now designed for the "girl in the gray flannel suit." The business student is the girl who is capable, attractive, who has definite and dynamic goals. The School of Business is the clickety-clack of typewriters, the hieroglyphics of shorthand, the operation of business machines, the theories of economics, the principles of advertising. The first law is efficiency. The School of Business is the door to "opportunities unlimited," the starting point for girls with goals that are diverse and exciting; the girl with ideas, purpose, and ability.

Woodrow W. Baldwin,
Director of the School of Business.

Advertising is friendly persuasion Isabella K. Coulter, Professor of Advertising.

The tape measure might well be the symbol of the School of Home Economics. The first inch is the first good cup of coffee-analyzed and finally brewed to perfection; the ability to make a kitchen produce good food comes at the first foot marking; tailoring at the next; and at the end, ability to cook for a thousand and design clothes for anyone. A thoroughly scientific course, they are fitted for a great deal more than a competence with the vacuum cleaner in their own homes. Dietetics, nutrition, teaching, research, advertising, writing — all areas welcome them. Armed with a copy of *Con*sumers' Guide and backed by their experiences in home management house and the nursery school on campus, they face a future of a thousand opportunities. And they are, perhaps, the only entire group at Simmons who need have no qualms about running their own homes.

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SCIENCE

The world of books ... their never-ending source of fascination.

Kenneth R. Shaffer, Director of the School of Library Science.

The School of Library Science is like a long shelf of books—containing volumes that are fascinating, difficult, erudite, amusing-all of which must be catalogued. From those days spent among the stacks with the Dewey Decimal, to the study of the most modern library methods and evaluation of fine book design, the students labor diligently and become expert. One of our oldest schools in age and prestige, its members have only to step outside the front door to have their choice of the many jobs offered. Endless research amidst the reference books which must be absorbed in their entirety gives these students a range of knowledge that opens their field to them . . . which gives the last book on the shelf the traditional happy ending.

Mrs. Evangeline H. Morris, Director of the School of Nursing.

The fifth and final year.

Sophomore Summer . . . vacation-time?

SCHOOL OF NURSING

The School of Nursing is a hospital corridor, with classrooms at one end and professional studies at the other. Between them lies a ward full of patients, an operating room full of fascination, a laboratory full of bottles and a utility room which always needs cleaning. The way along this corridor is not a fast push in a wheelchair-it is a long walk on tired feet with never a dull moment. After the sciences, psychology, liberal arts, and practical courses are the days of making beds and giving medications, and finally a competence in the work of the good nurse. Alternately with the thousands of nights "on call" and the mornings which come too soon are the antics of the class as one or another is momentarily overcome by hospital procedure but survives to fight with medical students another day. Rewarding, exhausting, rich with new sights and learning—these are the days of the Simmons nursing student.

PRINCE SCHOOL OF RETAILING

World-wide tour . . . in fashion.

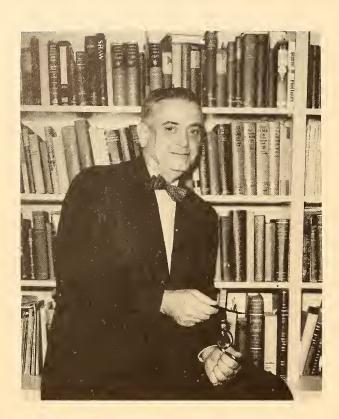

Donald K. Beckley, Director of the Prince School of Retailing.

Although we may know the Prince School of Retailing primarily as a fleet of taxi-cabs which bears girls toward the outside world of fashion and glamour, beneath the surface lies a well-trained mind equipped to handle personnel problems, labor relations and the executive handling of sales forces. With a solid business backing gained in their basic professional courses, they tackle the complexities of finance, advertising, store management and market research. During their period of practice work, their initiation is completed. When Prince girls beseige the world of retailing, not only are they dressed beautifully for the fray, but they have the knowledge and experience required by an exacting profession.

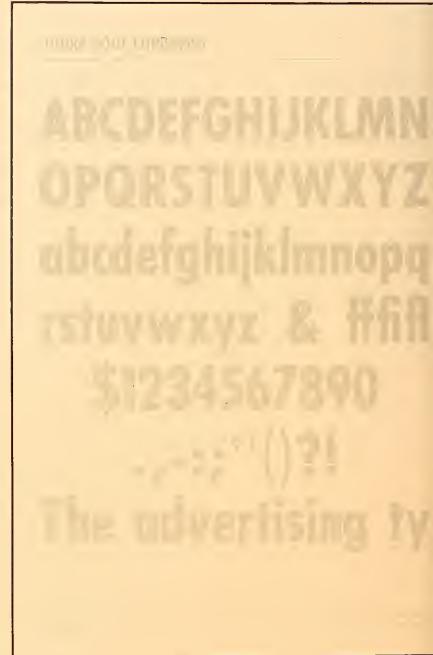

Raymond F. Bosworth, Director of the School of Publication.

The School of Publication is the Printshop, a world of words and work. And she who passes through Pub is propelled by blood, sweat, tears, and Bosworth. The Pub student is inked up, bleary eyed, harrassed, and oddly enough, a very happy person. She suffers from a malady, a disease caused by preoccupation and fascination with the lure of the printed word. The Pub School is marked by a unique "esprit de corps," for blood is thicker than water but ink is thicker than both. The Pub student is the frustrated or not frustrated writer, the woman of ideas, the future seller of truth, the hawker of truth in picas, truth in type, truth in print. The thesis-like Valz project, with the staggering demands it makes on all her faculties, teaches her one thing: that she has mastered her craft. The Pub School is a world of words, of work, of people, Ginny, Fez, Dotty, Boz; of places, the Gay room, the printshop, a world quite fascinating.

SCHOOL OF PUBLICATION

. . . Friend, you stand on sacred ground THIS IS A PRINTING OFFICE . . .

Dino G. Valz . . . Project!

Donald L. Fessenden . . . All hail our noble friend!

Weldon Welfling, Director of the School of Social Science.

The facets of the School of Social Science are legion. Utterly defying classification, its varied job goals are in equal number to its members. Psychology, Economics, Sociology, History, are all important and a part of the whole. Nor does its being the school closest to a liberal arts education prevent it from having a large practical experience. Volunteer Work is more than a community service-it makes up a broad range of experience forwarding the educational goal. Work done at Boston Psychopathic Hospital, Settlement House and other Boston institutions is worthwhile in any field graduates may ultimately choose. As a door to government work, community work, future study, and the financial and personnel fields, Social Science offers a choice and diversity of learning which makes it one of the most popular schools at Simmons.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCE

Cigarette break between classes gives rise to an impromptu seminar.

Although it is not an undergraduate school, the School of Social Work is well-known and widely respected. A two-year program for college graduates, it affords the student an opportunity to combine fundamental courses with field work and thus gain an understanding of the philosophy of social work and the concepts which guide the worker; later, there is a chance for specialization and continuous responsibility. To attain their Master's degree, students take courses which will give them insight and allow increased capability in the practical aspects of their work.

Robert F. Rutherford, Director of the School of Social Work.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

Time out between classes.

SCHOOL OF SCIENCE

The School of Science is a test tube, and a natural haven for those who find beauty in precision and clarity of analysis. The School of Science is the key to a telescopic as well as a microscopic view of life; she who looks through the microscope at minutiae glimpses the vast and eternal world of scientific structure. The science student bears the insignia of the lab; occasionally she is partly blown up, burnt up, spotted and speckled. But the laboratory is a constant challenge, a place both familiar and exciting. The science student is biologist, chemist, physicist, perfectionist by nature and craft. She learns that almost-right is not enough. The science student lives in a world of colors, odors, curious formulae; a glass world whose transparency enables her to see with the eyes of the Curies, Einsteins, Pasteurs. Like them, the student seeks solutions in test tubes.

Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

John Arrend Timm, Director of the School of Science.

SENIORS

Four years of college, four years of laughter, trouble, happiness, and friends, four years of learning and growth. Graduation, senior year, leaving Simmons; all are double-edged swords. The lure of the future, certain or uncertain; the security of the past, each corner traced, lived and remembered—familiarity traded for adventure. The years rushed by as a rapid river, breaking on rocks, swirling giddily, a sudden pool of still water. Together we traveled toward this point, gaining tolerance and memories. We stand together for the last time before answering the alluring call of tomorrow.
